Charles Sumner, Against the Repeal of the Missouri Prohibition of Slavery North of 36 30, in the Senate, February 21, 1854* It is with regard to this territory, that you are now called to exercise the grandest function of the lawgiver, by establishing those rules of polity which will determine its future character. As the twig is bent the tree inclines; and the influences impressed upon the early days of an empire, like those upon a child, are of inconceivable importance to its future weal or woe. The bill now before us, proposes to organize and equip two new territorial establishments, with governors, secretaries, legislative councils, legislators, judges, marshals, and the whole machinery of civil society. Such a measure, at any time, would deserve the most careful attention. But, at the present moment, it justly excites a peculiar interest, from the effort made - on pretences unsustained by facts - in violation of solemn covenant, and of the early principles of our fathers - to open this immense region of slavery. According the existing law, this territory is now guarded against slavery by the positive prohibition, embodied in the act of Congress, approved March 6th, 1820, preparatory to the admission of Missouri into the Union, as a sister State, and in the following explicit words: Sec. 8. Be it farther enacted. That in all that territory ceded by France to the United States under the name of Louisiana, which lies north 36 30 of north latitude, not included within the limits of the State contemplated by this act, Slavery and Involuntary Servitude, otherwise than as the punishment of...
